Her weight at launching time was 20,500 tons. Approximately 750,000 man days of labor was required for building the ship.

HOUSE VOTES TO OVERRIDE TAX BILL VETO

Colleagues Speak

Colleagues—including Sen. Connally (D) Texas—declared that Barkley's case of independence would assure him of reelection in Kentucky.

Mr. Roosevelt himself sought to keep Barkley at his post. A few hours after Barkley made his historic resignation speech, the President sent White House Secretary Stephen T. Early to the senator's home with a plea to reconsider.

The chief executive disavowed an intention of attacking the honesty of congress in its passage of the two billion dollar tax bill and expressed hope the Democratic caucus would reelect Barkley if he refused to keep at his important post.

The President, who was out of the city when Barkley dropped his bombshell in the senate, sent the Kentucky the following telegram which was delivered in person by Early:

Regret Voiced

"I regret to learn from your speech in the senate on the tax veto that you thought I had in my message attacked the integrity of yourself and other members of the congress. Such you must know was not my intention. You and I may differ, and have differed on important measures but that does not mean we question one another's good faith.

"In working to achieve common objectives we have always tried to accommodate our views so as not to offend the other whenever we could conscientiously do so. But neither of us can expect the other to go further.

"When on last Monday I read to you portions of my tax message and you indicated your disagreement, I made certain changes as a result of our talk. You did not, however, try to alter my basic decision when you realized how strongly I felt about it.

"While I did not realize how very strongly you felt about that basic decision, had I known, I should not have tried to dissuade you from exercising your own judgment in urging the overriding of the veto.

"I sincerely hope that you will not persist in your announced intention to resign as majority leader of the senate. If you do, however, I hope your colleagues will not accept your resignation; but if they do, I sincerely hope that they will immediately and unanimously reelect you.

Serious Problems

"With the many serious problems daily confronting us, it is inevitable that at times you should differ with your colleagues and differ with me. I am sure that your differing with your colleagues does not lessen their confidence in you as leader.

"Certainly, your differing with me does not affect my confidence in your leadership nor in any degree lessen my respect and affection for you personally.

"Very sincerely yours, (Signed)

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Barkley, however, refused to reconsider his decision and told reporters he did not want to be reelected party leader.

Mr. Roosevelt's haste in dispatching the telegram to Barkley soon after he received news of the event, was interpreted by some as an attempt to mend the widening break between the White House and the legislative body.

Barkley was roundly applauded for his action. Vice President Wallace left the chamber when Barkley started his speech, but later

LENTEN SEASON IN FULL SWING IN CIRCLEVILLE

The Lenten season was in full swing in Circleville and Pickaway county Thursday following well-attended Ash Wednesday exercises in nearly all churches.

An innovation in some churches, a Fellowship covered dish supper, proved highly successful, more than 100 members of Methodist and Presbyterian churches gathering in their respective dining rooms for splendid programs.

The Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the former church was highly pleased by the success of his congregation's undertaking. The covered dish supper was attended by a large crowd, arrangement of tables and other details being in charge of Mrs. F. K. Blair and the women of Circle No. 2.

After the supper a brief devotional service was conducted at the tables.

At the meeting next week, the Men's Brotherhood will arrange details.

One hundred and seven enjoyed the Presbyterian cooperative dinner at 6:30 p. m. and several more came for the evening service. Long tables in a hollow square were supplemented by two others as the size of the group outnumbered the estimate.

The Rev. Carl Kennedy was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Will Mack, Mrs. Kennedy and several members of the Ladies' Aid society assisted in arranging the buffet tables and serving coffee.

Rounds were sung while the group was at the table. Mrs. Theodore Huston served as piano accompanist for all hymns and group singing.

"Peter's Tears" was the topic of the first Lenten sermon by the minister. Brief service included hymns, responsive reading and prayer. Informal setting, chairs being turned at the tables and the open square filled. Mrs. Clark Will sang a Lenten solo, "Into the Woods, My Master Went." Miss Abbe Mills Clark played the piano accompaniment.

During the open forum, activities of various groups of the church were called to attention by officers and there was discussion of plans for a nursery for small children to enable parents to attend the Sunday morning service. The new hymnals for the Sunday school were used and the new church hymnals were displayed.

Members of the families present participated in the activities of the gay and unrestrained social hour that concluded the affair.

Services at Trinity Lutheran church and at St. Joseph's Catholic church were equally successful.

World Day of Prayer is being observed Friday with a union service at St. Philip's and a Lutheran service scheduled in the afternoon.

BOND SALE CONTINUES

Sale of E bonds in the current Fourth War Loan campaign is continuing at a fairly brisk pace with Clark Will, campaign chairman, stating Thursday that the total bought to date is $295,072. This includes 2,435 purchases. Heavy sales during the last two days this week will send the individual sales quota over the top, although the remainder of the issues are far below the E percentage. The county's quota in the Fourth War Loan is $1,244,000.

returned to personally congratulate him on his "courage."

Reflecting the sentiment of his colleagues, Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D) Tenn., declared "of course we'll reelect him as leader."

"This veto of the President on the tax bill is the second time in about two weeks that the President has attacked the integrity of the senate," said McKellar. "I think it is time for congress to assert itself in its rights and duties."

"I am delighted that Barkley made his speech. It was similar to, but better than the one I made when the President denounced the soldiers' vote bill as a 'fraud' on the people."

"We don't object to honest criticism, but this affects the honor and integrity of the senate."

SHOWDOWN WITH PARTY FAGED BY PRESIDENT

curately reflected overwhelming sentiment within the Democratic ranks of congress. His protest was echoed by such Democratic stalwarts in the house as Rep. Robert L. Doughton, 33 years a member of the house, and Rep. E. E. Cox, of Georgia, who has spent 19 years on Capitol Hills.

Their belief is that Mr. Roosevelt is seeking a fourth term on a campaign platform of attacking congress. They believe the President's advisers—Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and Judge Samuel Rosenman—are responsible for this strategy. They demand that it be changed.

To Change Procedure

The "Barkley incident," aside from fourth term effects, is certain to change the legislative procedure in congress. In the past, Barkley and house leaders have served as little more than messengers, taking presidential orders to senate and house. Hereafter, if what the leaders say is true, senate and house Democrats will weigh White House recommendations carefully but use their own independent judgment before acting.

One prominent senate Democrat observed that the senate Democratic leader will represent the senate at the White House, rather than the White House in the senate. He added that there will be party caucuses to determine Democratic strategy in the senate, rather than to accept White House recommendations blindly.

There is an element of "self preservation" in Democratic reaction to the "Barkley incident." Mr. Roosevelt's fourth term managers have been saying that he will be reelected to a fourth term, even if the house and senate go Republican. It is no discredit to congressional Democrats to say they want to be reelected even if Mr. Roosevelt fails in a fourth term. Hence, if they cannot all win together, it will be—as Napoleon once ordered—"save himself who can."

Last of "Big Five"

The "Barkley incident" has many significant features. One that may be overlooked is the fact that he is the last of the "Big Five"—who joined James A. Farley in winning Mr. Roosevelt his first nomination in 1932—to part company with the President. The others were the Late Sen. Huey P. Long, of Louisiana; Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana; Former Sen. Clarence Dill, of Washington, and Former Gov. Harry H. Woodring, of Kansas.

Barkley's role in the 1932 convention was to hold Kentucky in line for the late Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, as permanent chairman, against J. P. J. Shouse, anti-Roosevelt candidate, who was born in Kentucky. Barkley won—and Roosevelt won.

There were many odd individual reactions to the "Barkley incident." One, illustrative of all, was this: Sen. Bailey (D) N. C.: "Sen. Barkley stands greater now than ever before in the eyes of the President. The President loves courage."

Sen. Brewster (R) Maine: "Yes, the President loves courage, but he hates insubordination."

ERRORS IN PRICES

C. R. Barnhart, Wincoor Canning Co. executive, said Thursday that two errors appeared in The Herald's story concerning increases in production of foods for canning. The price for pea seed to farmers should have been $6 instead of $60, and the price to be paid for Country Gentleman and yellow corn should have been $18 instead of $10.

DRAFT NOTICES SENT TO COUNTY'S ELIGIBLES

Selective service office started to send notices Thursday to men who will fill draft calls early next month. The board has received a call for some colored men for pre-induction examinations, and also will send several into navy training and some others into training in the army.

Men to be taken for training have already passed examinations in pre-induction tests. They can expect their notices in Friday or Saturday mail.

BATAAN JAPS PAID IN FULL

Arawe have been thoroughly cleared of all organized enemy resistance," the communique said.

The clearing of Japanese from western New Britain provides a still further threat to Rabaul, the Jap base on the island's north-east tip, already under blockade from the sea and daily assault from the air.

The equivalent of six Japanese divisions have been slain or are isolated in the Southwest Pacific through recent advances of Gen. MacArthur's hard-hitting forces, operating in a carefully-planned series of surprise moves.

In addition to the 7,000 killed in New Britain, another 14,000 were slain or died of starvation and disease in New Guinea's Huon peninsula. In the Solomons, an estimated 22,000 Japs are trapped, while some 40,000 enemy troops are in the Rabaul area, where Jap convoys have met destruction in recent days.

Five more ships were sunk by American planes, Gen. MacArthur announced, bringing to 49 the number known sunk in the last week by U. S. fliers.

AUXILIARY DEPUTIES TO SELECT LEADERS FOR 1944

Officers of the Pickaway county Auxiliary Deputies' association will be elected Thursday evening at a meeting to be conducted at 7:30 p. m. in the Betz restaurant. All members of the unit are expected to be present.

James Stout is president of the association at the present time, the active organization being formed to assist the sheriff's office in its work and to perform any other emergency service. It was set up originally under Civilian Defense.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

That's the burning question that confronts dining car personnel on American railroads every day.

More millions are riding trains than ever before—and everybody wants to eat. That's right and proper—and we are glad of it. The job of feeding the millions of wartime travelers is being done — by streamlining service to the nth degree, by stretching ration points to almost the breaking point — and above all, it is being done with your good natured tolerance and cooperation.

But it's not a job to be sneezed at! Take the situation on the Norfolk and Western, for example. We are serving nearly five times more people on our dining cars now than in 1939 — and without any additional equipment. (Not a single new dining car has been turned out since Pearl Harbor.) Furthermore, today's ration point system for railroad dining cars calls for meal planning that would drive the most ingenious housewife crazy. For instance the N. & W. is allowed an average of .93 of one ration point for meats, fats and dairy products for each meal served each passenger, and that includes members of the armed forces on special movements, who must be fed from civilian allotments. Then, there's the manpower shortage — like every other business, railroad dining car service has lost a number of experienced employees to the armed forces. (And right here we would like to say: those who are on the job are really "carrying on" in a big way.)

The Norfolk and Western has always taken pride in its dining car service. And now, with the tremendously increased travel and wartime difficulties, we are doing our very level best to maintain that service — by making the most of what we have. Dining cars have been redesigned to seat 40 passengers instead of 30. Every square inch of space is being utilized. Meals are served almost continuously.

If you have to stand in line at the dining car; if you are not served as promptly as you want to be; if that T-bone steak is not on the menu, we believe that you will continue to understand, and bear with us. And you may be sure that our dining car folks will continue to exert every effort to serve you efficiently and give you the very best the market affords.

WEEK END WILL DECIDE WINNER IN BIG 10 RACE

Ohio State Certain Of Tie; Northwestern, Purdue In Crucial Tilts

By International News Service
The hopes of Northwestern and Purdue to share 1944 Big Ten basketball honors with Ohio State will be riding on games this week end.

Minus the services of mighty Otto Graham who now is a naval cadet, Northwestern goes up against the gun twice. The Wildcats play Illinois in the first game of a Chicago stadium doubleheader Friday night, and on Saturday night invade Purdue for a game which will eliminate one or the other from the title race.

The next week end Northwestern journeys to Iowa City for a pair of games against Iowa, which faces Notre Dame in a non conference tilt Saturday.

One defeat for Northwestern in its four remaining games will blast the Wildcat title-sharing chance.

In last year's game, Illinois set a conference scoring record by defeating the Purple 86 to 44. Tomorrow night's contest will be the 44th in a series in which the Illinois have scored 30 victories.

Following the Illinois-Wildcat game, Ohio State, which has completed its league schedule, will take the court against hard-driving De Paul's Blue Demons. Ohio State now leads the Big Ten race and cannot get worse than a tie for the title.

TROSKY PLACED IN 1-A, MAY GO INTO UNIFORM

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—Harry Grabinger, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, said today he had received word from Hal Trosky indicating that the big first baseman obtained by the Sox from the Cleveland Indians expected to be drafted.

Trosky said he had been called by his Cleveland draft board to take his army physical examination there, but had asked that his papers be transferred to his Benton county, Iowa draft board.

He said that the migraine headaches which forced him out of baseball now had disappeared and that he was in first class health. He is married, has three children and conducts a large farm in Iowa.

ARMSTRONG ON TOP; GARRISON THUMPED AGAIN

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24—Henry Armstrong, former triple titleholder, displayed another scalp today garnered on his current comeback trail.

He scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Garrison, Los Angeles welterweight, in 1:56 of the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout in the Kansas City municipal auditorium last night.

The bout marked the fourth meeting between the pair, with the once great Negro battler emerging the winner each time.

In complete control throughout the match, Armstrong hammered Garrison to the canvas four times before the referee stopped the one-sided affair.

The fight drew about 8,000 fans.

SPEEDY TEAMS TO BE SHOWN BY KIWANIANS

Principals for the Kiwanis club benefit basketball game to be played March 10 in the C. A. C. were named Thursday by Dan McClain, chairman of the committee planning the game.

Sully Loans and Tubby's Sandwich shop, tied for the lead in the capital city Industrial League, will play the feature game.

It is probable that a fast preliminary will be booked also.

All proceeds of the game will go to the club's fund for underprivileged children, devoted this year to work among boys and girls at the Children's Home.

Splendid Keystone Unit May Be Broken Up By Summons for Boudreau

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Feb. 24—Baseball's finest infield combination of these times seems about to be wiped out by the war, removing at the same time any chance of the Cleveland Indians making a showing in the American league pennant race. Shortstop-Manager Lou Boudreau is threatened by the prospect of joining his keystone playmate, Second Baseman Ray Mack, on the sidelines for the duration. No doubt President Alva Bradley had looked closely into his teams prospects when a few weeks ago he got himself severely blasted from all quarters by realistically foreseeing a tough situation for 1944.

The Indians can't lose Boudreau and Mack and do more than make a pretense at playing baseball, and that they will lose one or both of them seems to be a certainty. Mack said recently he planned to stay in war work instead of returning to second base. The reclassification of Boudreau into 1-A makes his future seem doomed to early curtailment for the purposes of continuing as the game's best shortstop and youngest manager. The Indians have only six infielders listed on their 1944 roster. Among them is Ken Keltner, the able third baseman. The rest are something less than standouts.

In that connection, they have five outfielders including Jeff Heath, Roy Cullenbine and Oris Hockett, which is the best thing about the club, if Boudreau and Mack really are out. They have two catchers with major league experience. Their pitching staff may not include Jim Bagby who has been feuding with Boudreau.

10 MILLION'S WAGERED
NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 24—A total of $9,862,629 was bet in the mutuels during the 65-day Winter racing meet at fair grounds. Albin Tazuer, secretary of the Louisiana Racing Commission, announced today. Tazuer said the daily average was 151,732, and that total attendance for the meet was 160,988.

Last Contest Of Regular Season To Be Staged Against London

Cincinnati high Tigers will ring down the curtain on their regular season's schedule Friday evening when they play host to London on the C. A. C. court.

The Madison county boys gave the Tigers a hard struggle early in the season.

The Red and Black has had a good year, although it has dropped several games in the last two weeks. However, Coach Roy Black is hoping to have his crew in shape for the district tournament which opens soon.

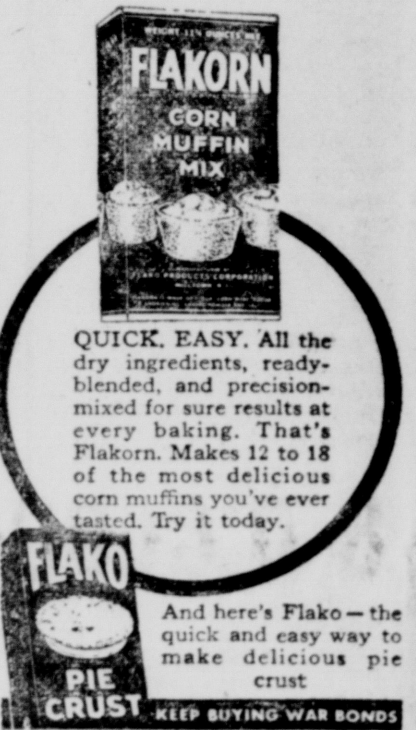

Pairings for the tournament will be made Saturday in Delaware, the tournament being held at Ohio Wesleyan university.

FORMER MAJOR LEAGUER HEADS CALL TO COLORS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 24—Ben Chapman, former major leaguer who was slated to pilot the Richmond team of the Piedmont league this year, today announced he had been ordered to report for induction into the army March 1.

Chapman passed his preliminary examination last week. He said he had been accepted for limited service.

The veteran minor league player said that a contract, calling for a substantial raise over last year's salary, arrived in the same mail as his induction notice from the Richmond club.

CONFESSION OF COLLETT CHIEF HOPE OF STATE

Prosecution Lists Only Three Witnesses For Trial Opening Monday

17 CALLED BY DEFENSE

Toledo Policemen To Tell How McCoy Slayings Were Admitted

The state today indicated that it will base its entire hope for sending James Collett, Clinton county farmer, to the electric chair for the murder of the Elmer McCoy family on the confession he is alleged to have made in Toledo only a short time after the Thanksgiving eve killings. The trial opens Monday.

The fact that Fayette county Prosecutor John Hill has subpoenaed only three persons as state's witnesses, all three of those persons being from Toledo, shows the importance of the confession, claimed to have been made after questioning through use of a lie detector.

The Toledo persons who will testify are Detective Captain A. W. Eggert, Detective Lieutenant George Eckerman and Miss Katherine Critchfield, Toledo police stenographer.

No other names are included in the list of witnesses being called by the state. Others may be filed later, however.

Interest continues high in Pickaway county in the trial which opens next Monday before Judge Harry M. Rankin in Washington, C. H.

Collett is charged with the triple murder of Elmer McCoy, his wife and daughter at their home. The state claims he has confessed the Elmer McCoy shooting, but Collett's attorneys have filed notice that they will prove an alibi, showing that Collett could not have been at the McCoy home the night of the triple shootings.

The defendant's list of witnesses is much longer than the state has announced, at least to date. Included are persons from Fayette, Clinton and Franklin counties.

The list includes Ann W. Potts, neighbor of McCoy, who heard shots the night of the murders; Dewey Clayton, farm hand who found the bodies; Gerald Stevens, Weldon Spurlock and Judge of the Peace G. H. Worrell, all of Fayette county; John J. Ducey, Columbus; Ralph O. Wead, Xenia; Sablin McDonald, Harveysburg; the same Toledo detectives subpoenaed by the state, and the following Clinton county persons, Dr. Elizabeth Shrieves, Marvin L. Chambers, Dr. V. E. Hutchens, M. Louis Banta, James Conover, Dr. Neil Myers and Ed J. Ames.

YOUTH NABBED ON JOY RIDE IN STOLEN CAR

Four Five Points community boys, one of whom will face a Madison county juvenile court charge of automobile theft, were arrested Wednesday evening when they made the mistake of driving a car which had been stolen in Mount Sterling back to Five Points where its owner lives and where it was recognized.

Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious said the car taken from a Mount Sterling street was owned by Robert Walters, Five Points. Walters had parked in Mount Sterling to buy cigarettes. When he returned to the sidewalk the car was gone.

Pontious said that the youth's mother, Mrs. Marie Walters, who lives in Five Points, was notified of the theft, and she told neighbors. A while later the car was seen to go through Five Points. Later it came back, and three villagers, Delmas Terfingler, Johnny Brigner and Adrian Liston stopped it.

In the car was Jack Nance, 15, and three other boys.

The Nance boy admitted taking the car in Mount Sterling, picking up the three neighbor boys and taking them a ride. He admitted he told the other boys that he had borrowed the car from a fellow named Tom in Mount Sterling.

The boys had planned to go to a party at the school house for three schoolmates who were leaving March 1 for new homes.

Walters told Deputy Pontious he would file a complaint against young Nance, so the youth was turned over to Harry Dixon, Mount Sterling night policeman. The other three boys were taken home by Deputy Pontious. No charges will be put against them.

BEFORE CALLING A SERVICEMAN—

OFTEN—when one of your electric appliances is out of order—a minor adjustment is all that is needed to return it to working condition. By referring to the questions listed below — you can determine to your own satisfaction whether or not the trouble is serious enough to warrant calling a serviceman. His time, tires and gasoline are mighty important these days. You help a lot — when you "fix it yourself".

Things To Check:

- ★ Is your appliance connected? Sounds obvious, but you'd be amazed how often a disconnected cord is all that's wrong.
- ★ Does the appliance plug fit firmly in the outlet? If not, it may be necessary to spread the prongs apart or squeeze them together.
- ★ Will other appliances work on the same outlet? If not, it's the wiring, not the appliance that is out of order.
- ★ Will the appliance work in an outlet on another circuit? If it does, check your fuses or circuit breaker. Maybe there's a blown fuse.
- ★ Will the appliance work with another cord? If it will, the cord is at fault, not the appliance.

PRIVATE FUNERAL TO BE HELD FOR MRS. IMLER

Private funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, West High street, for Mrs. Effie B. Imler, 69, who died suddenly Wednesday morning. Mrs. Imler was a native of Ross county, born April 7, 1874, a daughter of David and Nancy Ellen Sampson Rooker. Her husband, Lincoln Imler, whom she married March 5, 1893 in Yellowbud, preceded her in death.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. B. F. Borcman of Calvary Evangelical church with burial in Whisler cemetery by the Albaugh Co.

Friends may call at the Carter home Friday evening.

Mrs. Imler's survivors include the following: children, Florence Frye, Westerville; Earl D. Imler, Columbus; Evelyn Carter, West

COLLEGE RECONVERSION

It was an excellent idea for the government to send young men to colleges for academic education along with military training, while awaiting call to active duty. Also, if aviation cadets had to be "put into cold storage" until fields had places made for them by the moving out of finished flyers, no better place could have been found than colleges where they could learn something while waiting. This is a war where men who know mathematics, sciences and languages, including enough English to write clear, brief, acceptable reports, are needed at every point.

It was also a good idea to keep the colleges going. Many small ones would have been in a bad way without the government payments which kept them alive.

But it is a bad idea for colleges to protest the government's discontinuance of this training, as if they had a right to have the program continue. They helped the government by training boys, the government helped them by paying. The greatest service, in many cases, was the demonstration of colleges and students alike that more hard work could be done in less time than had been previously believed.

Reconversion of all plants, intellectual as well as mechanical, must go on. The turn from war to peace will doubtless come hard in many places, but must be expected. Independent colleges will have to struggle along as best they can, thanking heaven and the American spirit that they are not state-controlled. They will be needed again before long. Any clamor for further benefits at this time may be short-sighted.

WAR RELIEF

It is not only necessary for the American people to win this war, but desirable to do considerable wiping up around the edges in the progress of the big job. Congress has faced this problem intelligently in voting the expenditure of $1,350,000,000 for participation in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration. The senate has followed the house with a vote of 47 to 14. The house was unanimous about it, but the senate has done well enough.

Along with such an international commitment, there need be no doubt that, while the great war is in progress and when it is over, this nation's wounds will be bound up and the widow and orphan will be cared for.

One of the worst things about our American governmental system is that, just as soon as a public servant does a good job, in any field, people want to run him for the presidency.

Mostly we don't mind figures and forms, but right now we'd give a good deal never to see Form 1040 again.

Foresee Bitter Fight Over Price, Wage Control Laws Military Men Asking Less Gossip About Reconversion

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Congress is slowly approaching a fight over price and wage control laws that promises to equal in fury anything it has experienced over the subsidy and soldier vote issues.

The matter will come to a head when House and Senate begin consideration of a bill to extend life of the Office of Price Administration beyond June 30. Into the battle over price control will go that over wages, which have not been held in line despite the Little Steel formula.

Representatives Brent Spence (D) of Kentucky, chairman of the House banking and currency committee, and Jesse P. Wolcott (R) of Michigan, minority leader on price control matters have agreed to begin hearings soon. Wolcott has added that they will require at least two months.

In the Senate, Senators Elmer Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, and Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith (D) of South Carolina, are clamoring for complete revamping of OPA.

For the gigantic job these four men have in mind, Congress will have little time to act before June 30. This has given rise to some suspicion on the Republican side that the administration hopes to drag the matter along until the eleventh hour, and then jam through a resolution continuing present laws. The GOP says it won't stand for any such tactics. Thus the battle lines form.

SENATOR TOM CONNALLY, tall, leonine Texas Democrat, believes the much criticized federal income tax blanks should not be made too simple. The nation's economy is complex and tax blanks have to be complex to fit complexities, Long Tom holds. Too much simplicity might mean more injustice, he says.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

BOOTLEGGING OF QUININE

WASHINGTON—Most lucrative bootlegging in the world today is in quinine—also the most tragic from the viewpoint of U. S. troops fighting in the malaria-ridden tropics.

On top of the fatal error of Jesse Jones' aide, Will Clayton, in not buying quinine from the Dutch East Indies when it was available during the first two months after Pearl Harbor, U. S. officials seem frustrated in their efforts to stop precious quinine from leaking through our fingers, some of it perhaps to the Axis.

These leakages apply to quinine developed in Latin America, where we are supposed to control every single gram. Despite this, hundreds of pounds are slipping out from under the noses of Leo Crowley's Federal Economic administration officials.

Here is part of the record:
On May 19, 1943, Banco Lisboa and Acores de Lisboa sent to the Guaranty Trust of New York a letter of credit for Jose Sturm of La Paz, Bolivia, for $7,750 covering 150 kilos of quinine sulphate at $50 a kilo. (Base price set for U. S. buyers is $28.40 a kilo).

On May 27, B. Bordoni of Buenos Aires wrote to Chemia, Ltd., of Lisbon that Jose Sturm had an order for 500 kilos of quinine to be shipped in monthly lots. By this time, the price had gone up to $60. Chemia, Ltd., replied accepting the offer. Five hundred kilos is about 1100 pounds of quinine, enough to last U. S. troops in the Southwest Pacific perhaps a year.

On October 20, the Nicaraguan legation in Mexico shipped to Nicaragua by Pan American Airways 21 packages of quinine, weighing 80 kilos and valued at $4,997. The shipment carried the directive that President Somoza be notified personally when the quinine arrived.

On October 18, the Bank of Portugal in Lisbon instructed the Bank of Manhattan in New York to open an irrevocable credit in favor of J. Sturm in Lisbon of $20,000 for 264 kilos of Bolivian quinine. The shipments would be made through an Argentine port.

On November 11, 80 kilos of quinine hydrochloride and 10 kilos of quinine sulphate were shipped from Peru to the Dominican Republic by Pan American Airways.

LEAKAGE CONTINUES

Strangely enough, substantial quantities of quinine are being purchased by various agents in the Dominican Republic. Why such a small country should need so much quinine remains a mystery.

As recently as two weeks ago, Leo Crowley's FEA cabled Quito, Ecuador, authorizing purchase of certain quinine produced in that country. But before the purchase was accomplished, the same lot of quinine had been shipped from Ecuador to Venezuela. In Venezuela, the U. S. ambassador got wind of it and there was a hot exchange of cables, the United States pointing out that Ecuador had agreed to ship only to the U. S. A. In this case, the disputed quinine finally is being shipped from Venezuela on to this country.

is that military and naval commanders have warned the War Production Board not to raise civilian hopes too high by discussion of the matter.

Representatives of the high command threshed the matter out with WPA and persuaded all that for psychological reasons post-war planning should be played down. The reasons—the war is not yet won, definite victory trends in Europe are yet in the offing and production might be endangered by too many workers quitting their jobs for places with better post-war futures.

Whenever workers see a plant closed because of a cutback in orders, although total production is steadily mounting, there is a let-down in effort.

All these reasons, it is said, are behind WPA Chairman Donald Nelson's recent statement that large scale reconversion must wait a while.

SKILLED OBSERVERS POINT OUT that while Great Britain, China and the United States are working hand in glove with Russia to beat the Axis, the relationships are strictly military.

Russia, they explain, has not permitted herself to make any definite or firm commitments and continues to disclose her attitude on foreign affairs through the government controlled press instead of through the accepted diplomatic channels. The Reds thus free themselves of responsibility for official statements—a practice which diplomats in Washington and London regard as strictly against the rules.

Meanwhile, Red troops grind onward, bringing the U. S. S. R. closer and closer to control of the central European lands expected to figure in final peace negotiations.

FARM BLOC MOGUL ED O'NEIL, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, thinks Henry J. Kaiser should be called upon to produce farm machinery in the same way he is producing ships.

O'Neal admits that the war production board is doing a fair job in getting farm machinery to farmers, but he thinks Kaiser could perform another miracle and boost food production at the same time.

Nutritional Ills Attacking Infants

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN ARTICLES during the last two weeks we have outlined the most modern practice in infant feeding during the first year and the second year. Milk modification is now on a satisfactory and scientific level. The most important features of milk for infant feeding are that it shall be clean, sufficient and with proper nourishing factors.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Vitamins C and D need to be added to a diet of cow's milk and usually iron. Modern practice, we noted, gave infants additional food earlier than used to be thought necessary and a variety of solid or semi-solid food during the first year.

But even the best modern management occasionally runs up against the same old infants' troubles that our grandmothers had, disturbances of nutrition and digestion.

Infant's Nutritional Troubles

The commonest nutritional trouble of the infant is failure to gain weight. And the commonest cause of failure of the infant to gain weight is inadequate food intake. Other causes are infections, chronic or acute congenital disturbances of the digestive tract, such as caeliac diseases, possibly allergy. The old ideas that some particular part of the food is responsible for malnutrition have been proved worthless—for instance, starch malnutrition.

Common errors resulting in under-feeding are:

(1). Boiling the orange juice. This kills the Vitamin C which is the very reason orange juice is given.

(2). Changing formulas. Mothers get worried when the baby does not gain, and get panicky in changing to queer formulas. Cases come up of infants who have been exclusively on a diet of cereal water for weeks, in the belief that milk was undigested or indigestible. The chances are the formula is all right, but the infant simply does not get enough of it, which means larger or more frequent feedings. Or that not enough sugar is added to cow's milk. Weighing the baby before and after every feeding of breast milk will decide the amount of milk obtained.

(3). Misinterpretation of symptoms. When malnutrition is present and especially as it increases, diarrhoea is likely to occur. This is interpreted as an indication for further reduction of food. Or as idiosyncrasy to some food element, so the formula is exchanged, decreasing one or the other food element which simply makes matters worse.

Any infection, especially if accompanied by fever, results in decrease of appetite and hence in weight loss. Chronic infection of the nose and upper respiratory tract often leads to diarrhoea which is interpreted as digestive trouble and feedings are reduced. Infections of the urinary tracts are particularly likely to be overlooked in infants on account of the difficulty of collecting urine.

Among digestive diseases, diarrhoea used to hold first place. In fact it used to account for more infant deaths than all other causes combined. Clean milk—dairy inspection, pasteurization, etc., has nearly eliminated it, but it still exists. Infants are much more susceptible to diarrhoea than adults. And infections will get in the milk, no matter how rigid the precautions. The principles of treatment of infectious diarrhoea are temporary rest of the digestive system, restoration of fluid balance, and of mineral balance; blood transfusion, if severe.

Vomiting is the second of the digestive diseases of infancy. The common causes are over-distention of the stomach by swallowing air, too frequent feeding, too large volume of food, unsuitable food, improper clothing.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

SYNOPSIS

Syria Verne, de luxe model, was the victim of a fatal bullet fired as she answered the telephone in her penthouse apartment to which she returned soon after midnight following a quarrel with Pierre Sturgis, art photographer. Argus Steele, author and erstwhile detective, is reconstructing the events of the evening before. He and his friend, Ellen Curtis, a model, were in the swank Penguin Club. During a brief absence of Ellen, Syria entered and was greeted by Argus as an old friend, the one-time Lucy Callahan who sang in the fearsome Dancer Martinielli's cafe. She announced that she had signed a Hollywood contract recently. Soon they were joined by Ellen and Pierre Sturgis. As Syria and Pierre were about to leave, the former asked Argus to phone her, adding in a whisper: "I may need your help." Ellen told Argus that she had overheard "a fellow looking little man" threaten Syria outside the Pierre Sturgis studio. From the bar came Bill Carstairs, III, playboy, who introduced his current blonde, Dorry. Later in the ladies' room, Ellen found Dorry in tears because Bill "is phoning that awful Syria Verne again." When Dorry dropped her opened purse, Ellen was shocked to see a snub-nosed revolver. Leaving Dorry in the care of an attendant, Ellen rejoined Argus, related what she saw, and they left the Penguin. Next morning, Ellen phoned Argus the news of Syria's murder and asked him to meet her at Roger Flag's model agency. Police Inspector Grange calls and is now discussing the crime with Argus.

CHAPTER SIX

Grange squinted at Argus speculatively. "Well," he began, "at nine this morning we got a call from the superintendent of the building where Lucy—Syria, lived and he tells us there's been a murder. So we go up to investigate." "How did the superintendent know I did hear a shot?" "No. It seems that no one heard the shot. But Syria worked for a model-agent named Roger Flag and this morning she didn't turn up for an early appointment. He had his secretary call her. The line was busy and finally the operator reported that the line must be out of order. You see, Steele, the phone was off the hook, lying near the body. Well, they finally called the superintendent and told him to get upstairs and tell Miss Verne to get in touch with the office immediately. The man knocked and there wasn't any answer, so he opened the door with a passkey and found the body, then he called the police." Grange paused. "Did you find the gun?" "No. No fingerprints neither." "What time was she murdered?" "As near as the doc can figure it must be around midnight. Finding the telephone off the hook that way makes it look like she might have been trying to get help when she was shot," Grange said. "She still had her hat and coat on like she just come in." "Did it look as if the place had been broken into?" "That's a funny thing too. The windows were all locked from the inside and, according to the superintendent, so was the front door. She had some money in her bag and a big diamond ring on her finger. He settled back in his chair. "So it wasn't robbery." "Did she have a maid?" "Yes. She was in the chips all right. The maid came in while we were there. She said she worked for her part time. We couldn't get much out of her except that Syria had quite a few men friends but not many women." Grange smiled. "I can believe that," said Argus. "Did she mention any one in particular?" "She said something about this Pierre Sturgis you mentioned. I have a detective checking up on him now. The elevator boy said Syria came home last night and she acted like she was plenty sore about something." Butch came in and announced that Inspector Grange was wanted on the telephone. Argus finished his breakfast and Butch took away the tray. Grange returned. "That was Smith, the guy I sent over to get Sturgis' story," he said. "It don't sound so good. Seems Syria had dinner with him and some friends named Carter. Syria walked out on the party about eleven-thirty and Sturgis and the Carters left a few minutes later. Sturgis left the Carters in front of the Maison Restaurant and went for a walk." "A walk?" "That's what he told Smith." Grange nodded as if to confirm his own statement. "Know anything about him?" "I met him last evening for the first time," Argus said. "It seems he was in love with Syria, but last night was the first time she'd been out with him in a month. He told Smith they'd had some sort of misunderstanding. Looks like my next stop'll have to be Sturgis' studio." Grange frowned. "Did Syria say anything to you last night, when you ran into her?" Argus recalled Syria's tenseness and her whisper, "I may need your help," and debated whether or not to tell the Inspector. He finally decided it would do no harm. "Any idea what she meant?" Grange asked. "No," said Argus lighting a cigarette, "not the slightest." "Syria's come up in the world since we knew her," Grange remarked. "She lived in an expensive apartment with a working girl—a penthouse in fact. Been there almost a year now. The lease is in her own name. She has a Van Gogh original hanging on the wall. As I told you we found a man's robe hanging among her clothes. Came from Frippey's. We're checking that too. You wouldn't know whether some one was puttin' up for her, would you?" "No," said Argus. "Did she mention Dancer Martinielli's name last evening?" Argus repeated what had been said and mentioned Ellen Curtis' story about the fellow who had been seen talking. Grange looked serious. "Figure it might have been one of Dancer's men?" "I don't know," said Argus. "Aside from that picture of me you found, weren't there any phone numbers or addresses lying around the apartment—or letters?" "We found a couple of addresses in her bag. One was Flag's office and the other was Sturgis' studio. The maid said she had a list by the phone, but whoever bumped her off must've stolen it. We couldn't find it. As for her mail, there were a few bills and—" Grange chuckled, "a letter from a Rajah in India who'd seen her picture in a bathing suit and proposed to her by mail. Said she could be head wife of his harem. The maid said that Syria didn't get many letters and when she did she destroyed them."

"Bright girl! Did the maid remember any of the names or numbers on the phone list?" "She said she'd seen Sturgis' name and Flag's and some one beginning with 'Car'—she couldn't remember the rest of it. She was pretty frightened by the murder."

"May have been the Carters she was out with last night," said Argus. "Or Bill Carstairs."

"The playboy?" "Yes. He phoned her last night. He was at the Penguin Club too. He was with a blonde—a blonde who was carrying a gun."

Grange sat forward. "A gun, eh? What's her name?" "Dorry."

"I don't know. Why don't you ask Carstairs?" "I will," Grange made a notation. "By the way, what time did you get home last night?"

"Around twelve, I guess. I didn't notice. Miss Curtis and I had dinner and I took her home around 11:30. He grinned at Grange. "Am I on your list of suspects too?"

"Just a routine check-up. After all, you did know Syria Verne pretty well and some one—not me understand—might get inquisitive."

Grange smiled knowingly. "Whoever killed her was clever. Careful not to leave any evidence around. No one was seen going in or out of her place at the time of the murder. I just had an idea—"

"That detective might turn criminal and attempt to commit the perfect crime? Is that, it Herr Himmel?"

"Well, it's just an idea," Grange agreed with a grin that took the sting out of his words. "Did Syria have any relations?"

"Plenty of illicit ones, I suppose." "No. You know what I mean—relatives."

"When I knew Syria," said Argus, "she told me she was an orphan and that an old couple in Kansas had adopted her and brought her up, but they died before she came to New York."

"Well, if she had any relatives I guess they'd read about it in the papers," Grange put away his notebook. "Guess I'd better be shovin'."

He slapped his knee as he rose. "I'd like to see those paintings of yours some day, Inspector. I never did figure out why a guy who was as good an artist as you are ever became a cop."

Grange looked down at his feet. "What's the matter with bein' a cop? You get to see a lot of life. Besides, my old man was a sergeant—Lord rest his soul."

"So that's it," Argus said. "Yeah, and I'm glad I am. What I've learned ain't hurt my painting any. You know, Steele, we've both seen a lot of murder, but this time I'm sore. I was kind of fond of Lucy but I had a hunch she'd hit a snag some day. She was too attractive for her own good. He shook his gray head sadly. "By the way, who painted that nude?"

He went over to examine it again. "It's a little too sexy for really great art—but it's effective."

"A man I helped send up the river. He did it just before he got the chair. He told the warden he wanted me to have it," Argus paused. "Strange, isn't it? Apparently both murderers and police inspectors have artistic impulses at times."

"I knew a bank robber once who liked to knit."

"Probably did it to keep his fingers nimble for cracking safes," Argus said. "Say, who was that beautiful dame you were with last night around 11:30?"

Obituary

FREDERICK EDWARD EGAN
Frederick Edward Egan, son of Edward and Fern Manahan Egan, was born January 18, 1915, and departed this life February 16, 1944, at the age of 29 years, 27 days. He was baptized at the home of Mrs. Hannah Keich, Tarleton, Ohio, on Friday, October 12, 1916, by Rev. Vandegriff.

Frederick was one of a family of three children, and the first to depart this life. He was united in marriage to LaVerne Karshner in the year of 1935, and to this happy couple was born one son, Roger Frederick, age seven years and 11 months. Frederick passed away to meet his Maker at 11 o'clock a. m. at a Columbus hospital, where he was a patient for the last seven months. He was brave and bore his afflictions with always contented to hope for the best. He was a kind-hearted and considerate father and son always showing the greatest respect for his elders.

He was a graduate of the Laurelville High School in the class of 1933, he participated in the many activities and events of the school.

Soon after his marriage to LaVerne Karshner, he became employed by the Circleville Herald Publishing Co. as a linotype operator and remained in their services for six years, until his recent illness caused his retirement from active duties.

He leaves to mourn his departure, one son, Roger Frederick, and his devoted wife, father and mother who were faithful to the end, two brothers, Howard Francis, who never tired of doing many acts of kindness to alleviate Frederick's worries, and Donald, and his grandmother, Mrs. Frances Manahan, of Tarleton, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Karshner and a host of other relatives.

His last thoughts were of his dearest ones, as he submitted to surgery, with a hope and a prayer for his life, and he was able to live to help raise his "little man" as he stated in his last message to his dearest wife and son.

"Good Night, Dear Frederick, good night.
But ere tomorrow's sun rises
Over yonder mountains—
Then, forever good morning.
May God bless you, Frederick."
DAD.

Should You Go First

"Should you go first and I remain
To walk the road alone,
I'll live in memory's garden, dear,
For happy days, when I can
In Spring I'll wait for roses red,
When fades the blue blue,
In early Fall when brown leaves fall
I'll catch a glimpse of you.

"Should you go first and I remain
For battles to be fought,
Each thing you've touched along the way
Will be a hallowed spot.
I'll hear your voice, I'll see your smile,
I'll know you're with me,
The memory of your heling hand
Will buoy me on with hope.

"Should you go first and I remain
To finish with the scroll,
No lengthening shadows shall creep in
To make this life seem dull,
We've known so much of happiness,
We've had our cup of joy,
And memory is a gift of God
That death cannot destroy.

"Should you go first and I remain,
One thing I'd like to say,
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon I'll follow you.
I'll want to know each step you take
For I may walk the same,
For some day down that lonely road
You'll hear me call your name."

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to all who so kindly assisted for the words of sympathy and the floral offerings, extended us, during the illness and death of our beloved son and husband, Frederick Edward Egan. Special thanks to the Revs. Fields and Wright and Whitel Funeral Home. Mrs. Frederick Egan and son, Roger and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Egan and family.

"ZERO CASE" SETTLED
NEW YORK — The "Johnny Zero" case has been settled. For three days a Supreme Court case involved testimony about every song with the name Johnny in it since "Johnny Comes Marching Home." The suit was brought by two men who claimed their idea and title had been appropriated. A financial payment silenced them.

BUSINESS DOUBLES PAY

THERE IS one best way to score more points than the dealer dealt your side in the cards. That is by making a business double of an opponent's bid if you get a good chance to do it. Of course, sometimes the double will chase him or his partner into some other declaration which you can't damage much. But much of the time he either will be unable to do that, having no other declaration in sight, or else just simply doesn't do it if he can.

three tricks, giving North and South 800 points.

In the middle came the various No Trump declarers, who reached their contract either the way it was done at Table 1 or the way the Table 4 people got there. Nearly all of those made either one or two extra tricks. Counting the Vulnerable game bonus of 500 points, they scored from 630 to 660 points.

The worst North-South score came where East knew enough to pull himself out of the hole in which he found himself when doubled at 1-Diamond, by bidding 1-Spade, but North didn't realize the difference between "sitting under" the declarer with four trumps and "sitting over" him with five, as South did when the diamonds got doubled. North's double of 1-Spade resulted in a two-trick set for a score of only 500 points, giving his pair bottom and East-West a top.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

There's a rumor around Hollywood these days that Sammy Kaye, maestro of the Monty Woolley-Sammy Kaye airshow heard Wednesdays at 7 p. m. over CBS, is going to make a movie based on the nationally popular Sammy Kaye airshow "warmup" and stage feature, "So You Want To Lead A Band." Sammy's running around with that "contract gleam" in his blue eyes.

"Watching Sinatra" is Hollywood's most popular pastime these days since he inaugurated his own new airshow Wednesdays 8 p. m. over the CBS network, from Filmtown's famous Vine Street Playhouse. Although the theatre is the largest broadcasting studio in town, backstage is jammed each Wednesday night with hundreds of people with any kind of an excuse to get in.

Edgar Bergen indulged in such strenuous stretching contortions before air time last Sunday that, the gang began to believe that the voice-tossing Swede had taken up acrobatics as a sideline. Bergen would bend 'way back, then from side to side. He wound up all the

LEDERER, GURIE

On the eve of the world premiere of their new film "Voice In the Wind," Francis Lederer and Sigrid Gurie will present a dramatic scene from the motion picture on the "What's New?" airshow, Saturday at 6 p. m. over the Blue network. Metropolitan Baritone Leonard Warren and Host Jim Ameche will also present as their guests Ed "Archie" Gardner and the singing King Sisters.

Following their appearance on the "What's New?" show, Mr. Lederer and Miss Gurie will leave immediately for Camden, N. J. where they will attend the premiere of their film held in honor of the war workers. This will be the first time any group of war workers has been saluted with a movie premiere.

Ed Gardner, better known as "Archie" from Duffy's, has taken time off from his new movie to come back East for a short visit. "Archie" guested on the "What's New?" show last week and will take up his unfinished business on his forthcoming visit.

PHIL SILVERS

Phil Silvers, who is well known in the films for his portrayals of the fast-talking boogie from Brooklyn, will be Bing Crosby's guest in the Music Hall, Thursday at 8 p. m. over NBC. Marilyn Maxwell will make another guest appearance as Bing's girl singer.

Silvers has come to the conclusion that "The Groaner" is at the crossroads of his career. For the sake of an old friendship the comedian has offered his services to Bing as manager. Silver's first step as Bing's manager will be to give him a few lessons in diction. Of course, Phil will also handle the money matters, and promises that

Registrars Named for Sale of 1944 Automobile License Tags

SALVAGE PLAN BOOSTED

New Numbers To Be Written On Inspection And Gas Ration Books

With 1944 automobile license plates going on sale next Wednesday, March 1, deputy registrars who will serve during the tag distribution were announced Thursday by the bureau of motor vehicles.

Because of the scarcity of metal, the motorist will receive only one plate which is to be displayed on the rear of the automobile. This is the first time in the history of automobile registration in Ohio when only one plate will be issued to the motorist.

The new license tag will have white numerals and letters with a dark blue background.

Registrars serving Circleville and Pickaway county will include: Ashville, Clyde Brinker.

Circleville, A. J. Lyle, this being a passenger car, truck and trailer license agency.

Commercial Point, Edward Hudson.

New Holland, Edward Kirk.

Orient, Willis Thompson.

Williamsport, Mrs. D. H. Marcy.

License distributors in surrounding villages were also listed, among them being: Amanda, L. W. Dickson; Lithopolis, Lawrence E. Lerch; Stoutsville, Mrs. Cecile Miesse; Laurelville, N. Virgil Durant; Mount Sterling, J. B. Rankin; Adelphi, Herbert Good; Kingston, Leslie F. Shepler; Clarksburg, Lois Crabb.

Salvage Planned

When applying for the new license the car owner must present his certificate of title and sign the applications.

Motorists are urged to contribute to the war effort by taking their old plates to the nearest scrap salvage collection center.

Approximately 1,200 tons of steel were used in the manufacture of the old license plates.

MRS. SADIE E. STEVENSON DIES AT RURAL HOME

Mrs. Sadie E. Stevenson, 84, widow of James H. Stevenson, and a resident of Pickaway county for the last two years, died Wednesday at her home in Pickaway township. She was born in Mason, West Virginia, September 14, 1859, a daughter of Preston E. and Rebecca Parsons Newell.

Survivors include the following children: Rebecca Sisson, Stoutsville; Edith Weisfoot, Pickaway township; Doris Mitchell, West Jefferson, and Herman Stevenson, Columbus; a brother, Abram Newell, Caledonia, O.; a sister, Elma Custer, Glenwood, W. Va., 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral will be Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Leon, W. Va., the Revs. Dunn and Miller officiating. Burial will be in Leon. The body will be at the home of Mrs. Weisfoot where brief services will be conducted Friday at 9 a. m. The body will then be taken to Leon for additional rites. Funeral arrangements are in charge of L. M. Mader.

RIVER RISING AFTER LONG INACTIVE PERIOD

Scioto river, long at the lowest level it has hit in years, has started to rise because of heavy rains of the last two days.

The stream has been at a two-foot stage through the Fall and most of the Winter, but at the time of measurement Thursday it had climbed to 5.25 feet. It is still rising.

The jump to 5.25 feet was recorded over night, the highest level the stream reached Wednesday being 3.42 feet.

Highest temperature in Circleville Wednesday was 47 degrees, while the lowest listed during the night was 34.

taining the 1944 license tag, however, motorists may use them any time on or after March 1.

Beckett Williams, chairman of the Columbus district War Price and Rationing office, asks Ohio motorists to write the number of their new license plate on the cover of their gasoline ration book and tire inspection records, in order to save car owners the trouble of rewriting the new numbers on the individual gasoline coupons on which the old number has already been written. This is the first time that car owners themselves are required to note new license numbers on their gasoline ration books.

DEMOCRATS TO TURN ATTENTION TO DELEGATES

Democratic leaders of the 11th Ohio congressional district are to gather in Lancaster Thursday night to discuss the coming election. All committee chairmen of the five counties in the district, including Carl C. Leist of Circleville, will be guests of Walter L. Gordon, Lancaster, central committeeman for the district, at a dinner at 7 p. m. in Hotel Lancaster.

Mr. Leist said the purpose of the meeting is to act on selection of delegates and alternates to represent the district at the national convention in Chicago on July 19. It is possible that resolutions will be considered on several controversial subjects.

The question of a candidate for the congressional post held by Dr. Walter Brehm, Logan Republican, is expected also to be discussed. Robert U. Hastings of Lancaster, Fairfield county prosecuting attorney, has indicated that he will be a candidate, several of his petitions already being in circulation.

Harold (Happy) Claypool, Chillicothe, who had also been mentioned as a probable candidate, will not be in the race if his efforts to win the post as U. S. marshal for southern Ohio bear fruit. Claypool has been endorsed by several county committees for the marshal's job, left vacant recently by death of C. H. (Chob) Sisson, Columbus. Mr. Claypool, who served three terms in congress, was beaten by Dr. Brehm in his fourth campaign. The 11th district includes Fairfield, Ross, Pickaway, Hocking and Perry counties.

HAROLD LINDSEY HELD PRISONER BY GERMANS

Sergeant Harold Eugene Lindsey, a former resident of the Madison Mills community near New Holland, is reported to be a prisoner of war in Germany.

HOUSE VOTES TO OVERRIDE TAX BILL VETO

Colleagues Speak

Colleagues—including Sen. Connally (D) Texas—declared that Barkley's show of independence would assure him of reelection in Kentucky.

Mr. Roosevelt himself sought to keep Barkley at his post. A few hours after Barkley made his historic resignation speech, the President sent White House Secretary Stephen T. Early to the senator's home with a plea to reconsider.

The chief executive disavowed an intention of attacking the honesty of congress in its passage of the two billion dollar tax bill and expressed hope the Democratic caucus would reflect Barkley if he refused to keep at his important post.

The President, who was out of the city when Barkley dropped his bombshell in the senate, sent the Kentuckian the following telegram which was delivered in person by Early:

"As I am out of the city I am unable to have a personal talk with you. If I were there, of course, that is the first thing I would do.

Regret Voiced

"I regret to learn from your speech in the senate on the tax veto that you thought I had in my message attacked the integrity of yourself and other members of the congress. Such you must know was not my intention. You and I may differ, and have differed on important measures but that does not mean we question one another's good faith.

"In working to achieve common objectives we have always tried to accommodate our views so as not to offend the other whenever we could conscientiously do so. But neither of us can expect the other to go further.

"When on last Monday I read to you portions of my tax message and you indicated your disagreement, I made certain changes as a result of our talk. You did not, however, try to alter my basic decision when you realized how strongly I felt about it.

"While I did not realize how very strongly you felt about that basic decision, had I known, I should not have tried to dissuade you from exercising your own judgment in urging the overriding of the veto.

"I sincerely hope that you will not persist in your announced intention to resign as majority leader of the senate. If you do, however, I hope your colleagues will not accept your resignation; but if they do, I sincerely hope that they will immediately and unanimously recede you.

Serious Problems

"With the many serious problems daily confronting us, it is inevitable that at times you should differ with your colleagues and differ with me. I am sure that your differing with your colleagues does not lessen their confidence in you as leader.

"Certainly, your differing with me does not affect my confidence in your leadership nor in any degree lessen my respect and affection for you personally.

"Very sincerely yours,

(Signed)

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Barkley, however, refused to reconsider his decision and told reporters he did not want to be reelected party leader.

Mr. Roosevelt's haste in dispatching the telegram to Barkley soon after he received news of the event, was interpreted by some as an attempt to mend the widening break between the White House and the legislative body.

Barkley was roundly applauded for his action. Vice President Wallace left the chamber when Barkley started his speech, but later

LENTEN SEASON IN FULL SWING IN CIRCLEVILLE

The Lenten season was in full swing in Circleville and Pickaway county Thursday following well-attended Ash Wednesday exercises in nearly all churches.

An innovation in some churches, a Fellowship covered dish supper, proved highly successful, more than 100 members of Methodist and Presbyterian churches gathering in their respective dining rooms for splendid programs.

The Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the former church was highly pleased by the success of his congregation's undertaking. The covered dish supper was attended by a large crowd, arrangement of tables and other details being in charge of Mrs. F. K. Blair and the women of Circle No. 2.

After the supper a brief devotional service was conducted at the tables.

At the meeting next week, the Men's Brotherhood will arrange details.

One hundred and seven enjoyed the Presbyterian cooperative dinner at 6:30 p. m. and several more came for the evening service. Long tables in a hollow square were supplemented by two others as the size of the group outnumbered the estimate.

The Rev. Carl Kennedy was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Will Mack, Mrs. Kennedy and several members of the Ladies' Aid society assisted in arranging the buffet tables and serving coffee.

Rounds were sung while the group was at the table. Mrs. Theodore Huston served as piano accompanist for all hymns and group singing.

"Peter's Tears" was the topic of the first Lenten sermon by the minister. Brief service included hymns, responsive reading and prayer. Informal setting, chairs being turned at the tables and the open square filled. Mrs. Clark Will sang a Lenten solo, "Into the Woods, My Master Went." Miss Abbe Mills Clark played the piano accompaniment.

During the open forum, activities of various groups of the church were called to attention by officers and there was discussion of plans for a nursery for small children to enable parents to attend the Sunday morning service. The new hymnals for the Sunday school were used and the new church hymnals were displayed.

Members of the families present participated in the activities of the gay and unrestrained social hour that concluded the affair.

Services at Trinity Lutheran church and at St. Joseph's Catholic church were equally successful.

World Day of Prayer is being observed Friday with a union service at St. Philip's and a Lutheran service scheduled in the afternoon.

BOND SALE CONTINUES

Sale of E bonds in the current Fourth War Loan campaign is continuing at a fairly brisk pace with Clark Will, campaign chairman, stating Thursday that the total bought to date is $294,072.

This includes 2,435 purchases. Heavy sales during the last two days this week will send the individual sales quota over the top, although the remainder of the issues are far below the E percentage. The county's quota in the Fourth War Loan is $1,244,000.

returned to personally congratulate him on his "courage."

Reflecting the sentiment of his colleagues, Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D) Tenn., declared "of course we'll recede him as leader."

"This veto of the President on the tax bill is the second time in about two weeks that the President has attacked the integrity of the senate," said McKellar. "I think it is time for congress to assert itself in its rights and duties."

"I am delighted that Barkley made his speech. It was similar to, but better than the one I made when the President denounced the soldiers' vote bill as a 'fraud' on the people."

"We don't object to honest criticism, but this affects the honor and integrity of the senate."

SHOWDOWN WITH PARTY FAGED BY PRESIDENT

curately reflected overwhelming sentiment within the Democratic ranks of congress. His protest was echoed by such Democratic stalwarts in the house as Rep. Robert L. Doughton, 33 years a member of the house, and Rep. E. E. Cox, of Georgia, who has spent 19 years on Capitol Hill.

Their belief is that Mr. Roosevelt is seeking a fourth term on a campaign platform of attacking congress. They believe the President's advisers—Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and Judge Samuel Rosenman—are responsible for this strategy. They demand that it be changed.

To Change Procedure

The "Barkley incident," aside from fourth term effects, is certain to change the legislative procedure in congress. In the past, Barkley and house leaders have served as little more than messenger boys, taking presidential orders to senate and house. Hereafter, if what the leaders say is true, senate and house Democrats will weigh White House recommendations carefully but use their own independent judgment before acting.

One prominent senate Democrat observed that the senate Democratic leader will represent the senate at the White House, rather than the White House in the senate. He added that there will be party caucuses to determine Democratic strategy in the senate, rather than to accept White House recommendations blindly.

There is an element of "self preservation" in Democratic reaction to the "Barkley incident." Mr. Roosevelt's fourth term managers have been saying that he will be reelected to a fourth term, even if the house and senate go Republican. It is no discredit to congressional Democrats to say they want to be reelected even if Mr. Roosevelt fails in a fourth term. Hence, if they cannot all win together, it will be—as Napoleon once ordered—"save himself who can."

Last of "Big Five"

The "Barkley incident" has many significant features. One that may be overlooked is the fact that he is the last of the "Big Five"—who joined James A. Farley in winning Mr. Roosevelt his first nomination in 1932—to part company with the President. The others were the Late Sen. Huey P. Long, of Louisiana; Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana; Former Sen. Clarence Dill, of Washington, and Former Gov. Harry H. Woodring, of Kansas.

Barkley's role in the 1932 convention was to hold Kentucky in line for the late Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, as permanent chairman, against Jettett Shouse, anti-Roosevelt candidate, who was born in Kentucky. Barkley won—and Roosevelt won.

There were many odd individual reactions to the "Barkley incident." One, illustrative of all, was this:

Sen. Bailey (D) N. C.: "Sen. Barkley stands greater now than ever before in the eyes of the President. The President loves courage."

Sen. Brewster (R) Maine: "Yes, the President loves courage, but he hates insubordination."

ERRORS IN PRICES

C. R. Barnhart, Winco Canning Co. executive, said Thursday that two errors appeared in The Herald's story concerning increases in production of foods for canning. The price for pea seed to farmers should have been $6 instead of $50, and the price to be paid for Country Gentleman and yellow corn should have been $18 instead of $10.

DRAFT NOTICES SENT TO COUNTY'S ELIGIBLES

Selective service office started to send notices Thursday to men who will fill draft calls early next month. The board has received a call for some colored men for pre-induction examinations, and also will send several into navy training and some others into training in the army.

Men to be taken for training have already passed examinations in pre-induction tests. They can expect their notices in Friday or Saturday mail.

BATAAN JAPS PAID IN FULL

Arawe have been thoroughly cleared of all organized enemy resistance," the communique said.

The clearing of Japanese from western New Britain provides a still further threat to Rabaul, the Jap base on the island's north-east tip, already under blockade from the sea and daily assault from the air.

The equivalent of six Japanese divisions have been slain or are isolated in the Southwest Pacific through recent advances of Gen. MacArthur's hard-hitting forces, operating in a carefully-planned series of surprise moves.

In addition to the 7,000 killed in New Britain, another 14,000 were slain or died of starvation and disease in New Guinea's Huon peninsula. In the Solomons, an estimated 22,000 Japs are trapped, while some 40,000 enemy troops are in the Rabaul area, where Jap convoys have met destruction in recent days.

Five more ships were sunk by American planes, Gen. MacArthur announced, bringing to 49 the number known sunk in the last week by U. S. fliers.

AUXILIARY DEPUTIES TO SELECT LEADERS FOR 1944

Officers of the Pickaway county Auxiliary Deputies' association will be elected Thursday evening at a meeting to be conducted at 7:30 p. m. in the Betz restaurant. All members of the unit are expected to be present.

James Stout is president of the association at the present time, the active organization being formed to assist the sheriff's office in its work and to perform any other emergency service. It was set up originally under Civilian Defense.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

That's the burning question that confronts dining car personnel on American railroads every day.

More millions are riding trains than ever before—and everybody wants to eat. That's right and proper—and we are glad of it. The job of feeding the millions of wartime travelers is being done — by streamlining service to the nth degree, by stretching ration points to almost the breaking point — and above all, it is being done with your good natured tolerance and cooperation.

But it's not a job to be sneezed at! Take the situation on the Norfolk and Western, for example. We are serving nearly five times more people on our dining cars now than in 1939 — and without any additional equipment. (Not a single new dining car has been turned out since Pearl Harbor.) Furthermore, today's ration point system for railroad dining cars calls for meal planning that would drive the most ingenious housewife crazy. For instance the N. & W. is allowed an average of .93 of one ration point for meats, fats and dairy products for each meal served each passenger, and that includes members of the armed forces on special movements, who must be fed from civilian allotments. Then, there's the manpower shortage — like every other business, railroad dining car service has lost a number of experienced employees to the armed forces. (And right here we would like to say: those who are on the job are really "carrying on" in a big way.)

The Norfolk and Western has always taken pride in its dining car service. And now, with the tremendously increased travel and wartime difficulties, we are doing our very level best to maintain that service — by making the most of what we have. Dining cars have been redesigned to seat 40 passengers instead of 30. Every square inch of space is being utilized. Meals are served almost continuously.

If you have to stand in line at the dining car; if you are not served as promptly as you want to be; if that T-bone steak is not on the menu, we believe that you will continue to understand, and bear with us. And you may be sure that our dining car folks will continue to exert every effort to serve you efficiently and give you the very best the market affords.

PLAN ANOTHER VICTORY GARDEN

You can help relieve the food and manpower shortage by again turning your backyard, your unused flowerbeds, and other available ground into Victory gardens. No vegetables taste so good as those you plant and raise with your own hands. Dig into our "good earth" — and you will have the real satisfaction of knowing that you and your family are fighting for Victory

WEEK END WILL DECIDE WINNER IN BIG 10 RACE

Ohio State Certain Of Tie; Northwestern, Purdue In Crucial Tilts

By International News Service
The hopes of Northwestern and Purdue to share 1944 Big Ten basketball honors with Ohio State will be riding on games this week end.

Minus the services of mighty Otto Graham who now is a naval cadet, Northwestern goes up against the gun twice. The Wildcats play Illinois in the first game of a Chicago stadium doubleheader Friday night, and on Saturday night invade Purdue for a game which will eliminate one or the other from the title race.

The next week end Northwestern journeys to Iowa City for a pair of games against Iowa, which faces Notre Dame in a non-conference tilt Saturday.

One defeat for Northwestern in its four remaining games will blast the Wildcat title-sharing chance.

In last year's game, Illinois set a conference scoring record by defeating the Purple 86 to 44. Tomorrow night's contest will be the 44th in a series in which the Illini have scored 30 victories.

Following the Illini-Wildcat game, Ohio State, which has completed its league schedule, will take the court against hard-driving De Paul's Blue Demons. Ohio State now leads the Big Ten race and cannot get worse than a tie for the title.

TROSKY PLACED IN 1-A, MAY GO INTO UNIFORM

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—Harry Grabinger, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, said today he had received word from Hal Trosky indicating that the big first baseman obtained by the Sox from the Cleveland Indians expected to be drafted.

Trosky said he had been called by his Cleveland draft board to take his army physical examination there, but had asked that his papers be transferred to his Benton county, Iowa draft board.

He said that the migraine headaches which forced him out of baseball now had disappeared and that he was in first class health. He is married, has three children and conducts a large farm in Iowa.

ARMSTRONG ON TOP; GARRISON THUMPED AGAIN

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24—Henry Armstrong, former triple titleholder, displayed another scalp today garnered on his current comeback trail.

He scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Garrison, Los Angeles welterweight, in 1:56 of the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout in the Kansas City municipal auditorium last night.

The bout marked the fourth meeting between the pair, with the once great Negro battler emerging the winner each time.

In complete control throughout the match, Armstrong hammered Garrison to the canvas four times before the referee stopped the one-sided affair.

The fight drew about 8,000 fans.

SPEEDY TEAMS TO BE SHOWN BY KIWANIS

Principals for the Kiwanis club benefit basketball game to be played March 10 in the C. A. C. were named Thursday by Dan McClain, chairman of the committee planning the game.

Sully Loans and Tubby's Sandwich shop, tied for the lead in the capital city Industrial League, will play the feature game.

It is probable that a fast preliminary will be booked also. All proceeds of the game will go to the club's fund for underprivileged children, devoted this year to work among boys and girls at the Children's Home.

Splendid Keystone Unit May Be Broken Up By Summons for Boudreau

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Feb. 24—Baseball's finest infield combination of these times seems about to be wiped out by the war, removing at the same time any chance of the Cleveland Indians making a showing in the American league pennant race. Shortstop-Manager Lou Boudreau is threatened by the prospect of joining his keystone playmate, Second Baseman Ray Mack, on the sidelines for the duration. No doubt President Alva Bradley had looked closely into his teams prospects when a few weeks ago he got himself severely blasted from all quarters by realistically foreseeing a tough situation for 1944.

The Indians can't lose Boudreau and Mack and do more than make a pretense at playing baseball, and that they will lose one or both of them seems to be a certainty. Mack said recently he planned to stay in war work instead of returning to second base. The reclassification of Boudreau into 1-A makes his future seem doomed to early curtailment for the purposes of continuing as the game's best shortstop and youngest manager.

The Indians have only six infielders listed on their 1944 roster. Among them is Ken Keltner, the able third baseman. The rest are something less than standouts. In that connection, they have five outfielders including Jeff Heath, Roy Cullenbine and Oris Hockett, which is the best thing about the club, if Boudreau and Mack really are out. They have two catchers with major league experience. Their pitching staff may not include Jim Bagby who has been feuding with Boudreau.

Another capacity crowd is certain to attend the annual cage tournament to be resumed Friday night at Jackson school.

Principals in the semi-final round will include Perry township against Walnut, and Ashville against Pickaway township.

Tournament followers are favoring Perry and Ashville to win, thus moving to the finals Saturday night. However, opponents of both teams are capable of turning in upset victories.

Pickaway's coach, John Hardin, said Thursday that his team will go into its game crippled. Dunkle, forward, is reported to be in bed, and has orders to stay there.

Several other boys have injuries. McGinnis and Rhoades coming up with bad knees after a rough game in which they participated last week. McAfee fell over a barbed wire fence and is out.

Punk Warner is the only member of the first five to be in perfect condition.

FORMER MAJOR LEAGUER HEEDS CALL TO COLORS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 24—Ben Chapman, former major leaguer who was slated to pilot the Richmond team of the Piedmont league this year, today announced he had been ordered to report for induction into the army March 1.

Chapman passed his preliminary examination last week. He said he had been accepted for limited service.

The veteran minor league player said that a contract, calling for a substantial raise over last year's salary, arrived in the same mail as his induction notice from the Richmond club.

CONFESSION OF COLLETT CHIEF HOPE OF STATE

Prosecution Lists Only Three Witnesses For Trial Opening Monday

17 CALLED BY DEFENSE

Toledo Policemen To Tell How McCoy Slayings Were Admitted

The state today indicated that it will base its entire case for sending James Collett, Clinton county farmer, to the electric chair for the murder of the Elmer McCoy family on the confession he is alleged to have made in Toledo only a short time after the Thanksgiving eve killings. The trial opens Monday.

The fact that Fayette county Prosecutor John Hill has subpoenaed only three persons as state's witnesses, all three of those persons being from Toledo, shows the importance of the confession, claimed to have been made after questioning through use of a lie detector.

The Toledo persons who will testify are Detective Captain A. W. Eggert, Detective Lieutenant George Eckerman and Miss Katherine Critchfield, Toledo police stenographer.

No other names are included in the list of witnesses being called by the state. Others may be filed later, however.

Interest continues high in Pickaway county in the trial which opens next Monday before Judge Harry M. Rankin in Washington, C. H.

Collett is charged with the triple murder of Elmer McCoy, his wife and daughter at their home. The state claims he has confessed the Elmer McCoy shooting, but Collett's attorneys have filed notice that they will prove an alibi, showing that Collett could not have been at the McCoy home the night of the triple shootings.

The defendant's list of witnesses is much longer than the state has announced, at least to date. Included are persons from Fayette, Clinton and Franklin counties.

The list includes Asa W. Potts, neighbor of McCoy, who heard shots the night of the murders; Dewey Clayton, farm hand who found the bodies; Gerald Stevens, Weldon Spurlock and Judge of the Peace G. H. Worrell, all of Fayette county; John J. Ducey, Columbus; Ralph O. Wead, Xenia; Sabin McDonald, Harveysburg; the same Toledo detectives subpoenaed by the state, and the following Clinton county persons, Dr. Elizabeth Shrieves, Marvin L. Chambers, Dr. V. E. Hutchens, M. Louis Banta, James Conover, Dr. Neil Myers and Ed J. Ames.

YOUTH NABBED ON JOY RIDE IN STOLEN CAR

Four Five Points community boys, one of whom will face a Madison county juvenile court charge of automobile theft, were arrested Wednesday evening when they made the mistake of driving a car which had been stolen in Mount Sterling back to Five Points where its owner lives and where it was recognized.

Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious said the car taken from a Mount Sterling street was owned by Robert Walters, Five Points. Walters had parked in Mount Sterling to buy cigarettes. When he returned to the sidewalk the car was gone.

Pontious added that the youth's mother, Mrs. Marie Walters, who lives in Five Points, was notified of the theft, and she told neighbors. A while later the car was seen to go through Five Points. Later it came back, and three villagers, Delmas Terflinger, Johnny Brigner and Adrian Liston stopped it.

In the car was Jack Nance, 15, and three other boys.

The Nance boy admitted taking the car in Mount Sterling, picking up the three neighbor boys and taking them a ride. He admitted he told the other boys that he had borrowed the car from a fellow named Tom in Mount Sterling.

The boys had planned to go to a party at the school house for three schoolmates who were leaving March 1 for new homes.

Walters told Deputy Pontious he would file a complaint against young Nance, so the youth was turned over to Harry Dixon, Mount Sterling night policeman. The other three boys were taken home by Deputy Pontious. No charges will be put against them.

PRIVATE FUNERAL TO BE HELD FOR MRS. IMLER
Private funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, West High street, for Mrs. Effie B. Imler, 69, who died suddenly Wednesday morning. Mrs. Imler was a native of Ross county, born April 7, 1874, a daughter of David and Nancy Ellen Sampson Rooker. Her husband, Lincoln Imler, whom she married March 5, 1893 in Yellowbud, preceded her in death.
The service will be conducted by the Rev. E. F. Borcoman of Calvary Evangelical church with burial in Whisler cemetery by the Albany Co.
Friends may call at the Carter home Friday evening.
Mrs. Imler's survivors include the following: children, Florence Frye, Westerville; Earl D. Imler, Columbus; Evelyn Carter, West

High street, and Edward C. Imler, Ironton, who is in the navy; brothers and sisters, Lulu Dowden, Willard Rooker and Andrew Rooker, Columbus; Emma Dean, Springfield, and Ernest D. Rooker, Pleasantville.
Now is the time for every good man to put in a full week's work.

OPEN EVENINGS and ALL DAY SUNDAYS

BEFORE CALLING A SERVICEMAN—

OFTEN—when one of your electric appliances is out of order—a minor adjustment is all that is needed to return it to working condition. By referring to the questions listed below—you can determine to your own satisfaction whether or not the trouble is serious enough to warrant calling a serviceman. His time, tires and gasoline are mighty important these days. You help a lot—when you "fix it yourself".

Things To Check:

- ★ Is your appliance connected? Sounds obvious, but you'd be amazed how often a disconnected cord is all that's wrong.
- ★ Does the appliance plug fit firmly in the outlet? If not, it may be necessary to spread the prongs apart or squeeze them together.
- ★ Will other appliances work on the same outlet? If not, it's the wiring, not the appliance that is out of order.
- ★ Will the appliance work in an outlet on another circuit? If it does, check your fuses or circuit breaker. Maybe there's a blown fuse.
- ★ Will the appliance work with another cord? If it will, the cord is at fault, not the appliance.

COLLEGE RECONVERSION

IT was an excellent idea for the government to send young men to colleges for academic education along with military training, while awaiting call to active duty. Also, if aviation cadets had to be "put into cold storage" until fields had places made for them by the moving out of finished flyers, no better place could have been found than colleges where they could learn something while waiting. This is a war where men who know mathematics, sciences and languages, including enough English to write clear, brief, acceptable reports, are needed at every point.

It was also a good idea to keep the colleges going. Many small ones would have been in a bad way without the government payments which kept them alive.

But it is a bad idea for colleges to protest the government's discontinuance of this training, as if they had a right to have the program continue. They helped the government by training boys, the government helped them by paying. The greatest service, in many cases, was the demonstration of colleges and students alike that more hard work could be done in less time than had been previously believed.

Reconversion of all plants, intellectual as well as mechanical, must go on. The turn from war to peace will doubtless come hard in many places, but must be expected. Independent colleges will have to struggle along as best they can, thanking heaven and the American spirit that they are not state-controlled. They will be needed again before long. Any clamor for further benefits at this time may be short-sighted.

WAR RELIEF

IT is not only necessary for the American people to win this war, but desirable to do considerable wiping up around the edges in the progress of the big job. Congress has faced this problem intelligently in voting the expenditure of $1,350,000,000 for participation in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration. The senate has followed the house with a vote of 47 to 14. The house was unanimous about it, but the senate has done well enough.

Along with such an international commitment, there need be no doubt that, while the great war is in progress and when it is over, this nation's wounds will be bound up and the widow and orphan will be cared for.

One of the worst things about our American governmental system is that, just as soon as a public servant does a good job, in any field, people want to run him for the presidency.

Mostly we don't mind figures and forms, but right now we'd give a good deal never to see Form 1040 again.

Foresee Bitter Fight Over Price, Wage Control Laws Military Men Asking Less Gossip About Reconversion

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Congress is slowly approaching a fight over price and wage control laws that promises to equal in fury anything it has experienced over the subsidy and soldier vote issues.

The matter will come to a head when House and Senate begin consideration of a bill to extend life of the Office of Price Administration beyond June 30. Into the battle over price control will go that over wages, which have not been held in line despite the Little Steel formula.

Representatives Brent Spence (D) of Kentucky, chairman of the House banking and currency committee, and Jesse P. Wolcott (R) of Michigan, minority leader on price control matters have agreed to begin hearings soon. Wolcott has added that they will require at least two months.

In the Senate, Senators Elmer Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, and Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith (D) of South Carolina, are clamoring for complete revamping of OPA.

For the gigantic job these four men have in mind, Congress will have little time to act before June 30. This has given rise to some suspicion on the Republican side that the administration hopes to drag the matter along until the eleventh hour, and then jam through a resolution continuing present laws. The GOP says it won't stand for any such tactics. Thus the battle lines form.

SENATOR TOM CONNALLY, tall, leonine Texas Democrat, believes the much criticized federal income tax blanks should not be made too simple. The nation's economy is complex and tax blanks have to be complex to fit complexities, Long Tom holds. Too much simplicity might mean more injustice, he says.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Most lucrative bootlegging in the world today is in quinine—also the most tragic from the viewpoint of U. S. troops fighting in the malaria-ridden tropics.

On top of the fatal error of Jesse Jones' aide, Will Clayton, in not buying quinine from the Dutch East Indies when it was available during the first two months after Pearl Harbor, U. S. officials seem frustrated in their efforts to stop precious quinine from leaking through our fingers, some of it perhaps to the Axis.

These leakages apply to quinine developed in Latin America, where we are supposed to control every single gram. Despite this, hundreds of pounds are slipping out from under the noses of Leo Crowley's Federal Economic administration officials.

Here is part of the record:

On May 19, 1943, Banco Lisboa and Acores of Lisbon sent to the Guaranty Trust of New York a letter of credit for Jose Sturm of La Paz, Bolivia, for $7,750 covering 150 kilos of quinine sulphate at $50 a kilo. (Base price set for U. S. buyers is $28.40 a kilo).

On May 27, B. Bordoni of Buenos Aires wrote to Chemia, Ltd., of Lisbon that Jose Sturm had an order for 500 kilos of quinine to be shipped in monthly lots. By this time, the price had gone up to $60. Chemia, Ltd., replied accepting the offer. Five hundred kilos is about 1100 pounds of quinine, enough to last U. S. troops in the Southwest Pacific perhaps a year.

On October 20, the Nicaraguan legation in Mexico shipped to Nicaragua by Pan American Airways 21 packages of quinine, weighing 80 kilos and valued at $4,997. The shipment carried the directive that President Somoza be notified personally when the quinine arrived.

On October 18, the Bank of Portugal in Lisbon instructed the Bank of Manhattan in New York to open an irrevocable credit in favor of J. Sturm in Lisbon of $20,000 for 264 kilos of Bolivian quinine. The shipments would be made through an Argentine port.

On November 11, 80 kilos of quinine hydrochloride and 10 kilos of quinine sulphate were shipped from Peru to the Dominican Republic by Pan American Airways.

LEAKAGE CONTINUES

Strangely enough, substantial quantities of quinine are being purchased by various agents in the Dominican Republic. Why such a small country should need so much quinine remains a mystery.

As recently as two weeks ago, Leo Crowley's FEA cabled Quito, Ecuador, authorizing purchase of certain quinine produced in that country. But before the purchase was accomplished, the same lot of quinine had been shipped from Ecuador to Venezuela. In Venezuela, the U. S. ambassador got wind of it and there was a hot exchange of cables, the United States pointing out that Ecuador had agreed to ship only to the U. S. A. In this case, the disputed quinine finally is being shipped from Venezuela on to this country.

FEA contends that these leaks have been prevented since exclusive contracts

DIET AND HEALTH

Nutritional Ills Attacking Infants

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN ARTICLES during the last two weeks we have outlined the most modern practice in infant feeding during the first year and the second year. Milk modification is now on a satisfactory and scientific level. The most important features of milk for infant feeding are that it shall be clean, sufficient and with proper nourishing factors.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Vitamins C and D need to be added to a diet of cow's milk and usually iron. Modern practice, we noted, gave infants additional food earlier than used to be thought necessary and a variety of solid or semi-solid food during the first year.

But even the best modern management occasionally runs up against the same old infant troubles that our grandmothers had, disturbances of nutrition and digestion.

Infant's Nutritional Troubles

The commonest nutritional trouble of the infant is failure to gain weight. And the commonest cause of failure of the infant to gain weight is inadequate food intake. Other causes are infections, chronic or acute congenital disturbances of the digestive tract, such as celiac disease, possibly allergy. The old ideas that some particular part of the food is responsible for malnutrition have been proved worthless—for instance, starch malnutrition.

Common errors resulting in underfeeding are:

- (1) Boiling the orange juice. This kills the Vitamin C which is the very reason orange juice is given.
- (2) Changing formulas. Mothers get worried when the baby does not gain, and get panicky in changing to queer formulas. Cases come up of infants who have been exclusively on a diet of cereal water for weeks, in the belief that milk was undigested or indigestible. The chances are the formula is all right, but the infant simply does not get enough of it, which means larger or more frequent feedings. Or that not enough sugar is added to cow's milk. Weighing the baby before and after every feeding of breast milk will decide the amount of milk obtained.
- (3) Misinterpretation of symptoms. When malnutrition is present and especially as it increases, diarrhoea is likely to occur. This is interpreted as an indication for further reduction of food. Or as idiosyncrasy to some food element, so the formula is exchanged, decreasing one or the other food element which simply makes matters worse.

Any infection, especially if accompanied by fever, results in decrease of appetite and hence in weight loss. Chronic infection of the nose and upper respiratory tract often leads to diarrhoea which is interpreted as digestive trouble and feedings are reduced. Infections of the urinary tract are particularly likely to be overlooked in infants on account of the difficulty of collecting urine.

Among digestive diseases, diarrhoea used to hold first place. In fact it used to account for more infant deaths than all other causes combined. Clean milk—dairy inspection, pasteurization, etc., has nearly eliminated it, but it still exists. Infants are much more susceptible to diarrhoea than adults. And infections will get in the milk, no matter how rigid the precautions. The principles of treatment of infectious diarrhoea are temporary rest of the digestive system, restoration of fluid balance, and of mineral balance; blood transfusion, if severe.

Vomiting is the second of the digestive diseases of infancy. The common causes are over-distention of the stomach by swallowing air, too frequent feeding, too large volume of food, unsuitable food, improper clothing.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

SYNOPSIS

Syria Verne, de luxe model, was the victim of a fatal bullet fired as she answered the telephone in her penthouse apartment to which she returned soon after midnight following a quarrel with Pierre Sturgis, art photographer, Argus Steele, author and erstwhile detective, is reconstructing the events of the evening before. He and his friend, Ellen Curtis, a model, were in the swank Penguin Club. During a brief absence of Ellen, Syria entered and was greeted by Argus as an old friend, the one-time Lucy Callahan who sang in the fearsome Dancer Martinelli's cafe. She announced that she had signed a Hollywood contract recently. Soon they were joined by Ellen and Pierre Sturgis. As Syria and Pierre were about to leave, the former asked Argus to phone her, adding in a whisper: "I may need your help." Ellen told Argus that she had overheard "a tall looking little man" threaten Syria outside the Pierre Sturgis studio. From the bar came Bill Carstairs, III, playboy, who introduced his current blonde, Dorry. Later in the ladies' room, Ellen found Dorry in tears because Bill "is phoning that awful Syria Verne again." When Dorry dropped her opened purse, Ellen was shocked to see a snub-nosed revolver in it. Leaving Dorry in the care of an attendant, Ellen rejoined Argus, related what she saw, and they left the Penguin. Next morning, Ellen phoned Argus the news of Syria's murder and asked him to meet her at Roger Flagg's model agency. Police Inspector Grange calls and is now discussing the crime with Argus.

CHAPTER SIX

Grange squinted at Argus speculatively.

"Well," he began, "at nine this morning we got a call from the superintendent of the building where Lucy—Syria, lived and he tells us there's been a murder. So we go up to investigate."

"How did the superintendent know? Did he hear a shot?"

"No. It seems that no one heard the shot. But Syria worked for a model agency named Roger Flagg and this morning she didn't turn up for an early appointment. He had his secretary call her. The line was busy and finally the operator reported that the line must be out of order. You see, Steele, the phone was off the hook, lying near the body. Well, they finally called the superintendent and told him to go upstairs and tell Miss Verne to get in touch with the office immediately. The man knocked and there wasn't any answer, so he opened the door with a passkey and found the body, then he called the police."

Grange paused.

"Did you find the gun?"

"No. No fingerprints neither."

"What time was she murdered?"

"As near as the doc can figure it must have been around midnight. Finding the telephone off the hook that way makes it look like she might have been trying to get help when she was shot," Grange said. "She still had her hat and coat on like she just came in."

"Did it look as if the place had been broken into?"

"That's a funny thing too. The windows were all locked from the inside and, according to the superintendent, so was the front door. She had some money in her bag and a big diamond ring on her finger. He settled back in his chair. "So it wasn't robbery."

"Did she have a maid?"

"Yes. She was in the chips all right. The maid came in while we were there. She said she worked for her part time. We couldn't get much out of her except that Syria had quite a few men friends but not many women." Grange smiled. "I can believe that," said Argus. "Did she mention any one in particular?"

"She said something about this Pierre Sturgis you mentioned. I have a detective checking up on him now. The elevator boy said Syria came home last night and she acted like she was plenty sore about something."

Butch came in and announced that Inspector Grange was wanted on the telephone. Argus finished his breakfast and Butch took away the tray. Grange returned.

"That was Smith, the guy I sent over to get Sturgis' story," he said. "It don't sound so good. Seems Syria had dinner with him and some friends named Carter. Syria walked out on the party about eleven-thirty and Sturgis and the Carters left a few minutes later. Sturgis left the Carters in front of the Maison Restaurant and went for a walk."

"A walk?"

"That's what he told Smith. Grange nodded as if to confirm his own statement. "Know anything about him?"

"I met him last evening for the first time," Argus said.

"It seems he was in love with Syria, but last night was the first time she'd been out with him in a month. He told Smith they'd had some sort of misunderstanding. Looks like my next stop'll have to be Sturgis' studio," Grange frowned. "Did Syria say anything to you last night, when you ran into her?"

Argus recalled Syria's tenseness and her whispered, "I may need your help," and debated whether or not to tell the inspector. He finally decided it would do no harm.

"Any idea what she meant?"

Grange asked.

"No," said Argus lighting a cigarette, "not the slightest."

"Syria's come up in the world since we knew her," Grange remarked. "She lived in an expensive apartment for a working girl—a penthouse, in fact. Been there almost a year now. The lease is in her own name. She has a Van Gogh and this morning she didn't turn up for an early appointment. He had his secretary call her. The line was busy and finally the operator reported that the line must be out of order. You see, Steele, the phone was off the hook, lying near the body. Well, they finally called the superintendent and told him to go upstairs and tell Miss Verne to get in touch with the office immediately. The man knocked and there wasn't any answer, so he opened the door with a passkey and found the body, then he called the police."

"I met him last evening for the first time," Argus said.

"It seems he was in love with Syria, but last night was the first time she'd been out with him in a month. He told Smith they'd had some sort of misunderstanding. Looks like my next stop'll have to be Sturgis' studio," Grange frowned. "Did Syria say anything to you last night, when you ran into her?"

Argus recalled Syria's tenseness and her whispered, "I may need your help," and debated whether or not to tell the inspector. He finally decided it would do no harm.

"Any idea what she meant?"

Grange asked.

"No," said Argus lighting a cigarette, "not the slightest."

"Syria's come up in the world since we knew her," Grange remarked. "She lived in an expensive apartment for a working girl—a penthouse, in fact. Been there almost a year now. The lease is in her own name. She has a Van Gogh and this morning she didn't turn up for an early appointment. He had his secretary call her. The line was busy and finally the operator reported that the line must be out of order. You see, Steele, the phone was off the hook, lying near the body. Well, they finally called the superintendent and told him to go upstairs and tell Miss Verne to get in touch with the office immediately. The man knocked and there wasn't any answer, so he opened the door with a passkey and found the body, then he called the police."

Grange paused.

"Did you find the gun?"

"No. No fingerprints neither."

"What time was she murdered?"

"As near as the doc can figure it must have been around midnight. Finding the telephone off the hook that way makes it look like she might have been trying to get help when she was shot," Grange said. "She still had her hat and coat on like she just came in."

"Did it look as if the place had been broken into?"

"That's a funny thing too. The windows were all locked from the inside and, according to the superintendent, so was the front door. She had some money in her bag and a big diamond ring on her finger. He settled back in his chair. "So it wasn't robbery."

"Did she have a maid?"

"Yes. She was in the chips all right. The maid came in while we were there. She said she worked for her part time. We couldn't get much out of her except that Syria had quite a few men friends but not many women." Grange smiled. "I can believe that," said Argus. "Did she mention any one in particular?"

"She said something about this Pierre Sturgis you mentioned. I have a detective checking up on him now. The elevator boy said Syria came home last night and she acted like she was plenty sore about something."

Butch came in and announced that Inspector Grange was wanted on the telephone. Argus finished his breakfast and Butch took away the tray. Grange returned.

"That was Smith, the guy I sent over to get Sturgis' story," he said. "It don't sound so good. Seems Syria had dinner with him and some friends named Carter. Syria walked out on the party about eleven-thirty and Sturgis and the Carters left a few minutes later. Sturgis left the Carters in front of the Maison Restaurant and went for a walk."

"A walk?"

"That's what he told Smith. Grange nodded as if to confirm his own statement. "Know anything about him?"

"I met him last evening for the first time," Argus said.

"It seems he was in love with Syria, but last night was the first time she'd been out with him in a month. He told Smith they'd had some sort of misunderstanding. Obituary

FREDERICK EDWARD EGAN

Frederick Edward Egan, son of Edward and Fern Maubach Egan, was born January 18, 1915, and departed this life February 16, 1944, at the age of 29 years, 27 days. He was baptized at the home of Mrs. Hannah Kelch, Tarleton, Ohio, on Friday, October 12, 1916, by Rev. Vandegriff.

Frederick was one of a family of three children, and the first to depart this early life. He was united in marriage to LaVerne Karshner in the year of 1935, and to this happy couple was born one son, Roger Frederick, age seven years and 11 months. Frederick passed away to meet his Maker at 10 o'clock a. m. at a Columbus hospital, where he was a patient for the last seven months. He was always contented to hope for the best. He was a kind-hearted and considerate father and son, always showing the greatest respect for his elders.

He was a graduate of the Laurelville High School in the class of 1933, he participated in the many activities and events of the school. Soon after his marriage to LaVerne Karshner, he became employed by the Circleville Herald Publishing Co. as a linotype operator and remained in the service for six years, until his recent illness caused his retirement from active duties.

He leaves to mourn his departure, one son, Roger Frederick, and his devoted wife, father and mother who were faithful to the end, two brothers, Howard Francis, who never tired of doing many acts of kindness to alleviate Frederick's worries, and Donald, and his grandmother, Mrs. Frances Maubach, of Tarleton, Mo., and Mrs. Guy Karshner and a host of other relatives.

His last thoughts were of his dearest ones, as he submitted to surgery, with a hope and a prayer, and his lips that he may live to help raise his "little man" as he stated in his last message to his dearest wife and son.

"Good Night, Dear Frederick, good night;
But ere tomorrow's sun rises
Over yonder mountains—
Then, forever good morning,
May God bless you, Frederick."

DAD.

SHOULD YOU GO FIRST
To walk the road alone,
I'll live in memory's garden, dear,
With happy days we've known.
In Spring I'll wait for roses red,
When fades the blue blue,
In early fall when brown leaves fall
I'll catch a glimpse of you.

"Should you go first and I remain
For battles to be fought,
Each thing you've touched along
The way
Will be a hallowed spot.
I'll hear your voice, I'll see your smile,
Though blindly I may grope,
The memory of your helping hand
Will buoy me on with hope.

"Should you go first and I remain
To finish with the foe,
No lengthening shadows shall creep
In
To make this life seem dull,
We've known so much of happiness,
We've had our cup of joy,
And memory is one gift of God
That death cannot destroy.

"Should you go first and I remain,
One thing I'd have you do:
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon I'll follow you.
I'll take to know each step you take
That I may walk the same
For some day down that lonely road
You'll hear me call your name."

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to all who so kindly assisted for the words of sympathy and the floral offerings extended us during the illness and death of our beloved son and husband, Frederick Edward Egan. Special thanks to the Rev. Fields and Wright and White's Funeral Home, Mrs. Frederick Egan and son, Roger and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Egan and family.

"ZERO CASE" SETTLED

NEW YORK—The "Johnny Zero" case has been settled. For three days a Supreme Court case involved testimony about every song with the name Johnny in it since "Johnny Comes Marching Home." The suit was brought by two men who claimed their idea and title had been appropriated. A financial payment alienated them.

Registrars Named for Sale of 1944 Automobile License Tags

SINGLE PLATE TO BE REQUIRED ON OHIO CARS

Offices To Be Established In Five Communities Of County

SALVAGE PLAN BOOSTED

New Numbers To Be Written On Inspection And Gas Ration Books

With 1944 automobile license plates going on sale next Wednesday, March 1, deputy registrars who will serve during the tag distribution were announced Thursday by the bureau of motor vehicles.

Because of the scarcity of metal, the motorist will receive only one plate which is to be displayed on the rear of the automobile. This is the first time in the history of automobile registration in Ohio when only one plate will be issued to the motorist.

The new license tag will have white numerals and letters with a dark blue background.

Registrars serving Circleville and Pickaway county will include: Ashville, Clyde Brinker, Circleville, A. J. Lyle, this being a passenger car, truck and trailer license agency.

Commercial Point, Edward Hudson.

New Holland, Edward Kirk.

Orient, Willis Thompson.

Williamsport, Mrs. D. H. Marcy.

License distributors in surrounding villages were also listed, among them being: Amanda, L. W. Dickson; Lithopolis, Lawrence E. Lerch; Stoutsville, Mrs. Cecile Miesse; Laurelsville, N. Virgil Durant; Mount Sterling, J. B. Rankin; Adelphi, Herbert Good; Kingston, Leslie F. Shepler; Clarksburg, Lois Crabb.

Salvage Planned

When applying for the new license the car owner must present his certificate of title and sign the applications.

Motorists are urged to contribute to the war effort by taking their old plates to the nearest scrap salvage collection center.

Approximately 1,200 tons of steel were used in the manufacture of the old license plates.

MRS. SADIE E. STEVENSON DIES AT RURAL HOME

Mrs. Sadie E. Stevenson, 84, widow of James H. Stevenson, and a resident of Pickaway county for the last two years, died Wednesday at her home in Pickaway township. She was born in Mason, West Virginia, September 14, 1859, a daughter of Preston E. and Rebecca Parsons Newell.

Survivors include the following children: Rebecca Sisson, Stoutsville; Edith Weisfoot, Pickaway township; Doris Mitchell, West Jefferson; and Herman Stevenson, Columbus; a brother, Abram Newell, Caledonia, O.; a sister, Elma Custer, Glenwood, W. Va., 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral will be Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Leon, W. Va., the Revs. Dunn and Miller officiating. Burial will be in Leon. The body will be at the home of Mrs. Weisfoot where brief services will be conducted Friday at 9 a. m. The body will then be taken to Leon for additional rites. Funeral arrangements are in charge of L. M. Mader.

RIVER RISING AFTER LONG INACTIVE PERIOD

Scioto river, long at the lowest level it has hit in years, has started to rise because of heavy rains of the last two days.

The stream has been at a two-foot stage through the fall and most of the winter, but at the time of measurement Thursday it had climbed to 5.25 feet. It is still rising.

The jump to 5.25 feet was recorded over night, the highest level the stream reached Wednesday being 3.42 feet.

Highest temperature in Circleville Wednesday was 47 degrees, while the lowest listed during the night was 34.

taining the 1944 license tag, however, motorists may use them any time on or after March 1.

Beckett Williams, chairman of the Columbus district War Price and Rationing office, asks Ohio motorists to write the number of their new license plate on the cover of their gasoline ration book and tire inspection records. In order to save car owners the trouble of rewriting the new numbers on the individual gasoline coupons on which the old number has already been written. This is the first time that car owners themselves are required to note new license numbers on their gasoline ration books.

DEMOCRATS TO TURN ATTENTION TO DELEGATES

Democratic leaders of the 11th Ohio congressional district are to gather in Lancaster Thursday night to discuss the coming election. All committee chairmen of the five counties in the district, including Carl C. Leist of Circleville, will be guests of Walter L. Gordon, Lancaster, central committeeman for the district, at a dinner at 7 p. m. in Hotel Lancaster.

Mr. Leist said the purpose of the meeting is to act on selection of delegates and alternates to represent the district at the national convention in Chicago on July 19. It is possible that resolutions will be considered on several controversial subjects.

The question of a candidate for the congressional post held by Dr. Walter Brehm, Logan Republican, is expected also to be discussed. Robert U. Hastings of Lancaster, Fairfield county prosecuting attorney, has indicated that he will be a candidate, several of his petitions already being in circulation.

Harold (Happy) Claypool, Chillicothe, who had also been mentioned as a probable candidate, will not be in the race if his efforts to win the post as U. S. marshal for southern Ohio bear fruit. Claypool has been endorsed by several county committees for the marshal's job, left vacant recently by death of C. H. (Chob) Sisson, Columbus. Mr. Claypool, who served three terms in congress, was beaten by Dr. Brehm in his fourth campaign. The 11th district includes Fairfield, Ross, Pickaway, Hocking and Perry counties.

HAROLD LINDSEY HELD PRISONER BY GERMANS

Sergeant Harold Eugene Lindsey, a former resident of the Madison Mills community near New Holland, is reported to be a prisoner of war in Germany.

Mrs. Paul Lindsey of Mount Sterling, a sister-in-law, learned through shortwave from the German capital that he is being held in the Reich. His parents are now living in Leipsic, O. They removed from Madison Mills about a year ago.

Sergeant Lindsey, 25, is a veteran of 15 bombing missions over the Third Reich as a bombardier when he was reported missing.
